

The Dumfries Diamond

Diamond Winner in the 2003 Make it with Meat Awards, Stewart Houston created the Tomato and Oregano Rollover the recipe for which was distributed in mid October to all SFMTA members along with a colour poster to promote the new product.

This is not the first award to come Stewart's way and the shop is just bursting full of interesting meat products. He fires off steak pies at the rear of the front shop area, significantly retaining the pies raw status until they are cooked off. They are then displayed separately but they seem to sell as quick as he makes them.

Where known, (and that is a lot) Stewart and his staff call every customer by their first name greeting each and every one as good friends.

The shop is on the outskirts of the town of Dumfries in a quiet street just off the Lockerbie Road but customers can park conveniently at the side and front of the shop and when they do call they don't forget their wallets.

Stewart has a sizeable preparation area behind the mirror at the rear of the shop and access at the side for deliveries straight into a large walk around chill.

His beef comes from Millers of Speyside and Buccleuch Scotch Beef Ltd. whilst he sources his pork locally through Lockerbie.

Glen from QMS' Scotch Beef adverts made an appearance at the shop in October and Stewart looks forward to further publicity for his Diamond Award, hoping that diamonds really are forever
